ACCESSIBILITY

We believe that fact and fiction are both powerful tools in changing the way we look at the world and that they both impact on people in many different ways.

In a world where power is often unchecked and abused, we want to tell stories that shift that dynamic by presenting facts and fiction in ways that empower the listener, rather than to strip them of it.

PRONK! is a platform to tell stories that we are passionate about and we believe encourage people to ask questions. We hope the stories we choose enable people to look at something unfamiliar in new and exciting ways, making them feel safe, confident and optimistic about the future. Through this process we hope to tell stories that people can connect with and, in so doing, connect people.

Connecting people with themselves, with others, and with new ways of seeing is primary to our work - check our values HERE.

PRONK! is for everyone and anyone who loves exciting stories. And if you have ideas on how we can broaden our approach to accessibility we would love to hear from you. After all, we are still learning too.
